VOL. 25, NO. 7843. PORTLAND, OREGON, MONDAY, JUNE 29, 1885. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand as a household remedy a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetzer of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found in thirty five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

John McCullough is Taken to an Insane Asylum.

HE IS PLEASED WITH THE PLACE

Logan Carries Away All the Honors in Blaine's State—A Band of Renegade Apaches Routed by Government Troops.

NEW YORK, [illegible] McCullough [illegible] the [illegible] day. [illegible] of the friends [illegible] there [illegible] Hall [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] Taylor of [illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible] these [illegible] to take [illegible] with them in an open carriage. The carriage was driven up Broadway from the St [illegible] hotel to the [illegible] and to Bloomingdale. Shortly after [illegible] o'clock they alighted and McCullough was easily induced to accompany his friends into the office of Medical Superintendent Nichols, to whom he was introduced. He was afterward invited to inspect the buildings and by this ruse was conducted to apartments which had been prepared for him. His friends then [illegible] city.

[illegible]

NEW YORK, June 28.—John McCullough was yesterday handed over to the care of the Bloomingdale insane asylum, authorized by three of his closest friends. Mr McCullough's mental weakness has been well known for many months but it had assumed such alarming proportions lately that the step long deferred was at last considered necessary. McCullough spent Friday night at the St James hotel whose proprietor Captain [illegible] Connor is [illegible] his oldest and nearest friends. His room was [illegible] whose roof [illegible] the window. Soon after [illegible] o'clock yesterday morning Captain Connor [illegible] that his friend should [illegible] excitement and arranged a [illegible] to the room [illegible] McCullough [illegible] returned [illegible] word that the actor had not answered his call. The [illegible] Captain Connor went to his [illegible] room where McCullough was still lying [illegible].

"Hello, McCullough," said the captain. "Aren't you going to get up today?"

"What time is it?" [illegible] McCullough.

"It's after [illegible] o'clock."

"Well, what difference does it make? I have nothing to do."

"Well, I'll tell you John, I've received an invitation from a particular friend of mine," said Captain Connor, producing a letter he had caused to be sent him, "asking me to meet him a little way out on the road to have a little lunch, and I'd like to have you go along. Will you come?"

"All right, I'll join you," answered McCullough, and he rose to dress.

TROUBLE IN DRESSING.

Mr McCullough has not had easy use of his arms lately and he was expected by Captain Connor to [illegible] time in dressing. After waiting over half an hour, however, and Mr McCullough not making his appearance Captain Connor went again to his room. McCullough was standing on the floor with his undershirt half on, and making labored movements to get an arm in its sleeve. He [illegible] "confound this shirt," as Captain Connor entered.

"Keep cool, John," said the captain. "Don't get angry with the shirt," and thus pacified him.

Connor called Drs McBride and McFarland who were waiting at [illegible] came in. Connor introduced them as friends of his. Connor and McBride exchanged glances and the doctor held some conversation with the sick man. Afterward both doctors made a further examination of the patient and although [illegible] scrutinize as closely as they had [illegible] willing to [illegible] their subject suspect what they were doing, they became satisfied that the actor needed to be placed in care of professional [illegible]. Among the things he said was that he [illegible] two [illegible] chambermaids standing out in the street with [illegible].

Captain Connor had sent for Mr Robert M Taylor of the firm of DeGraff & Taylor and another friend of John McCullough's to come to the hotel, and when the actor's friends and physicians had [illegible] to an insane asylum [illegible] doctors [illegible] McAdam of the city court signed the commitment.

TAKEN TO THE ASYLUM.

McCullough and his three friends entered a closed carriage at the hotel door at about [illegible] o'clock in the afternoon and were driven up the road. On arriving at the asylum the party was shown into the parlor. Dr Sawyer Brown assistant medical superintendent of the institution soon came in with another physician and they made an examination of the patient. At its conclusion Dr Brown sat down alongside of McCullough on a sofa and said to him in a friendly way:

"Mr McCullough, your friends think it will be better for you to leave the city with all its excitements and that right here would be a good place for you to stop for a time. What do you think?"

"All right," was the answer. "I think so too. This is a nice place too and I'll stop with you."

Mr McCullough was then taken up stairs to a hall, on the next floor and told which his room would be. It was one of six that opened to the common corridor. The occupants of these rooms mingle together as they please, and have an exclusive dining room and billiard table. The rooms and corridor are neatly furnished and from the windows facing the south a full view of the handsome grounds of the institution is had. These patients have the liberty of the grounds many hours during the day and are taken for drives two or three times a week. John McCullough expressed much pleasure at his surroundings.

LOGAN PUSHES BLAINE TO THE WALL.

BOSTON, June 28.—A Portland Maine dispatch to the Herald draws attention to the fact that Mr Blaine was not invited to the national grand army encampment. The dispatch says: "There has been a feeling manifested this week right here in Maine which is not going to please or [illegible] Blaine. The Logan boom is a surprise. All this week the Illinois senator has been here. On the occasion of Tuesday's procession he was the one man whom everybody knew, everybody wanted to see and everybody cheered. At all public meetings and at secret executive sessions of the national encampment Logan was the central figure. On the streets at the camp ground everywhere he was the man. Mrs. Logan has been as conspicuous, as popular and as much an object of admiration and respect to the curious crowd as the general himself. She is not so handsome as those who have read of her without having seen her expect. She is not stately or imposing, but she knows how to keep herself before the public in a modest yet profitable way. Seated in an open carriage before the Falmouth hotel at noon on Wednesday everybody asked who that lady was, and there were enough Illinois and other men around by accident to gratify the curiosity. This has been a Logan week in the Blaine state. Perhaps this thing can be reversed but it is doubtful if Mrs Blaine [illegible] as Mrs Logan did in Maine."

[illegible]

TOLEDO, June 28.—For a long time there has been serious trouble in the Polish Catholic church here between the priest and his followers and a faction who were opposed to him. Over a year ago in a row growing out of this trouble, a man was killed, and the failure to convict the parties guilty of the offense stimulated the opposition, which has been increasing in ferocity. A few days ago an attempt was made to blow up the church with dynamite. This afternoon the trouble culminated in a general riot in which fire arms and all manner of weapons were freely used. Two men were killed and several injured while quite a number of houses were partially or entirely destroyed. The police have made a large number of arrests and an extra force is stationed on the grounds to prevent another outbreak.

HANGED BY ESCAPED JAIL BIRDS.

OMAHA, June 28.—The town of [illegible] Iowa is in a condition of intense excitement to-day, caused by the discovery of the dead body of William Hayes aged 1[illegible] hanging to a tree in the woods. On Tuesday morning young Hayes left his father's home to attend confirmation services at a Catholic church at [illegible] and did not return. The theory is that he was murdered by four prisoners who escaped from the Harrison county jail. Three of the men had escaped before but had been recaptured through efforts of the sheriff's son. Young Hayes bore a remarkable resemblance to the sheriff's son and it is believed that the jail birds [illegible] believed to be the sheriff's son [illegible] murdered by them in mistake.

[illegible]

[illegible] A T, June 28.—A [illegible] just arrived from the troops in the field in Mexico territory brings dispatches from Captain Crawford in the mountains southeast of [illegible] which says: On June 3 the scouts and troops struck a camp of Chiricahuas and killed one buck and captured fifteen women and children, five horses and a quantity of supplies. The squaws and children are en route to Bowie and will reach San [illegible] riding ranch tomorrow. This is the band of renegades who attacked Captain Lawton's supply train in Guadalupe canyon and killed three soldiers. Captain Crawford is following the trail of another band leading into the Sierra Madres.

THE COLORADO INDIAN TROUBLE.

DURANGO, Colo., June 28.—News is received from Fort Lewis that agent Stollsteimer has returned from Beaver creek where he went to investigate the recent Indian and cowboy outrages. The result will not be known until a report is made to the government.

CLEARING HOUSE RETURNS.

BOSTON, June 28.—Leading clearing houses of the United States report the total clearances for the week ending June 27 were $671,[illegible], a decrease of 15.8 per cent, compared with the corresponding week last year.

RAINSTORM AT BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, June 28.—The heaviest rainstorm for fourteen years visited this city this morning. The rainfall was 4 47-100 inches and the destruction very considerable. Upward of 200 basements and cellars were flooded on the line of Jones falls and in all depressed portions of the city. The streets were flooded, the sewers not having sufficient capacity to carry the water off.

[illegible] BOYTON MAKES AN EXPERIMENT.

CINCINNATI, June 28.—Captain Boyton blew up the miniature man-of-war [illegible] four miles below the city with seventy five pounds of dynamite this afternoon. The exhibition was successful and made in the presence of several thousand spectators.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

THE KENTUCKY FEUD.

LOUISVILLE, June 28.—A special to the Courier-Journal from Morehead, says: The trouble in Rowan county is [illegible] again. Humphreys, the deputy sheriff of the county, today shot Craig Tolliver, marshal of Morehead and leader of the [illegible] faction [illegible]. Tolliver was shot with a buckshot, one shot penetrating his breast [illegible]. [illegible] without effect. [illegible] rest of the night [illegible] barricaded in the house of Martin. It is almost certain that war will open again. Tolliver is not seriously hurt.

LATER.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Morehead posse attempted to arrest Humphreys and one of his confederates. Rayburn rushed out of the house and ran, firing. The posse returned the fire, killing Rayburn and mortally wounding Humphreys.

TRAIN [illegible]

[illegible], Col., June 28.—This afternoon when the Denver and Rio Grande passenger train for Salt Lake reached a point midway between [illegible] and Canyon City the middle coach left the track derailing another coach and sleeper. The sleeper struck a rock and is a total wreck. The passengers were all more or less bruised, but none dangerously injured. A German named Schrader had his [illegible] pierced by a splinter. Miss Daisy Wendell of Chicago was cut in several places but not seriously. Senator John T Elkins and [illegible] Will [illegible] Harrison of Leadville were among the passengers and were considerably bruised.

DROWNED.

[illegible], June 28.—Theodore [illegible] and [illegible] McReady, both employes in [illegible] works were drowned this afternoon while boat riding on a small lake near [illegible]. The bodies have not been recovered.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

ENGLAND.

THE DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT INCENSED.

LONDON, June 28.—The duchess of Connaught, the Princess Louise Marguerite of Prussia, is greatly incensed at criticisms on the career of her father Prince Frederick Charles contained in obituary notices in several newspapers. One of the writers called the "Red Prince" a drunken licentious debauchee who was in a chronic condition of delirium tremens, with frequent murderous ebullitions, during which he attempted to kill his wife. The duchess of Connaught it is said would have prosecuted all newspapers publishing alleged defamatory articles for libel if she had her own way, but at the intercession of husband and friends she concluded to let the matter drop.

BAD NEWS FOR WHEAT GROWERS.

LONDON, June 28.—The Standard in its financial article this morning says it is creditably informed as to the state of the stocks of both wheat and flour throughout the kingdom and that it will be as discouraging to distressed American holders since they promise to be much larger than was thought three months ago. There is also 500,800 [illegible] more of which on passage to Great Britain than last year, notwithstanding the absence of American sellers from the English market. They are in fact, giving the rest of the world an excellent chance for supplying England at prices which though low are still much better than if America had been in full competition.

THE CUBAN BUDGET.

MADRID, June 28.—Congress has voted the Cuban budget. The expenses are estimated at $31,000,000, and the revenue at $2,000,000. The Bank of Spain will loan the difference. The budget includes a loan of $[illegible] guaranteed by the Spanish treasury to reimburse the Bank of Spain and other foreign banks for loans to the Cuban treasury and to cover a deficit of $11,000,000 in the previous budget. The senate has approved the raising of $8,000,000 at a light percentage, payment of the loan not to be guaranteed by Spain, however, to build a railway in Central Cuba. The Cuban treasury will guarantee interest on the loan.

DISASTROUS STORMS.

PARIS, June 28.—Advices from Tonquin state that heavy storms have prevailed over the region in which the Fisher's islands are situated in the waters between the islands of Formosa and the mainland of China. Two French torpedo boats were sunk during these storms but the crews were saved.

KEILEY'S NOMINATION WITHDRAWN.

LONDON, June 28.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says President Cleveland has withdrawn the nomination of Mr Keiley to be minister to Austria.

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

A Very Gloomy Outlook for the Future—The Panic in Murcia.

LONDON, June 28.—At this time of the year when cholera had only taken a few scores of lives in Toulon and its suburbs and just made its appearance in Marseilles in 1884 there have been [illegible] deaths reported from eight provinces of Spain, which is much more than half the entire number of all deaths in France last year. From the start the mortality in Spain has been far greater than it was in France and lately it has become greater than it was last year even in Naples. The average ratio of deaths to cases now is about four in nine throughout Spain, roughly speaking. The death rate was two in seven in Italy. Within the last week and notably has this been the case in Murcia more than half the people attacked have died and in new provinces where the pest has appeared within the last two days those who escaped have been exceptions.

All the features of last year's siege are being repeated. The fearful experience at the Aix mad house finds its equal in the asylum outside of Madrid where lunatics are dying like sheep. The susceptibility of young soldiers to cholera which was noted at Toulon last year, has been exemplified again at Toledo barracks.

The plague finds ninety nine in 100 of its victims in the slums of cities or in poor villages where hygiene is an unknown word.

THE PANIC IN MURCIA.

A merchant who has just arrived in London from Murcia says he thinks it is absolutely impossible to describe the panic, loss of nerve and reason and frenzy. Not only has this feeling of panic paralyzed the business of Spain but it threatens to work more evil by deranging the food supply than even cholera has worked or may yet work. When we consider the total mortality at this early date it is frightful to contemplate what the total for Spain will be during the four or five torrid months to come, to say nothing of the probability [illegible] outbreaks of the plague in other southern cities.

There have been rumors of sporadic cases on the coast, both in the province of Barcelona and over Port Vendres in France but it has been impossible to get confirmation of the rumors. The authorities at Marseilles, Toulon and Lille are doing what can be done at this late day to guard against the scourge, but there is still a tendency to rely more upon the efficacy of quarantine than upon that of cleanliness. The belief is general that an outbreak of cholera in the provinces bordering the Pyrenees is now only a matter of days.

SATURDAY'S RETURNS.

MADRID, June 28.—Saturday's returns from the cholera infected districts are as follows: Murcia, city 5[illegible] new cases, 28 deaths; province 155 new cases, 48 deaths. Castellon de la Plana, city 4 new cases, 6 deaths; province 1[illegible]3 new cases, 51 deaths. Valencia, city 64 new cases, 43 deaths; province 114 new cases, 306 deaths. Toledo, city 10 new cases, 3 deaths; province 15 new cases, 6 deaths. Alicante, 143 new cases, 41 deaths. Saragossa, 12 new cases, 8 deaths. Aranjuez 31 new cases, 9 deaths.

DEMOCRATS GETTING DESPERATE

Charges Preferred Against Customs Officers—Text of Burchard's Letter to Secretary Manning Refusing to Resign—Washington Notes.

WHY CAPTAIN CONNOLLY RESIGNED.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Captain Connolly's [illegible] the late trouble between the Central American [illegible] involved in trouble with the Salvador [illegible] and sailed from [illegible] without clearance papers for which he was [illegible] with the Salvadorian authorities and again sailed without clearance papers. New complications it is believed arose from the preceding one. On the last trip of the Granada from Panama to this city Captain Connolly under instructions from the New York office turned over the command of his vessel to the first mate and arrived here as a passenger on her several days ago and immediately sent in his resignation to New York.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Some idea of the democratic hungry horde's desire for even subordinate offices may be had from the following notice posted on the door of a lately appointed naval officer: "The undersigned has no offices at his disposal. He is worried to death with applicants. He will not sign any more petitions or give any letters to any federal officer. It is absolutely useless to ask an appointment and cruel to harrass him." This is signed by Stuart Taylor.

NO NEWS FROM THE TOKIO.

No further news has been received by the Pacific Mail company today regarding the stranded steamer City of Tokio near Yokohama, Japan. This absence of news is interpreted by them as good news, as if the vessel had gone to pieces they believe a telegram would have been sent them to that effect. They now have strong hopes that the vessel may not be as seriously injured as previous dispatches indicated.

CORONER O'DONNELL'S CASE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—District Attorney Wilson, to whom had been referred the matter of the official conduct of Coroner O'Donnell for investigation has addressed a letter to the board of supervisors informing them that he will place O'Donnell's case before the grand jury as soon as possible.

WORKING HARD FOR OFFICE.

Democratic Claimants Prefer Charges of Fraud against the Customs Officers.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—It is stated here that local democrats have forwarded a demand to Washington for a clean sweep of republican office holders in the San Francisco custom house and basing their claims not as usual on a charge of offensive partisanship but on charges of wholesale dishonesty. The accusations as outlined are of the most sensational character. The Chinese restriction act it is alleged has been misused by certain parties for corrupt purposes of blackmail, extortion and other offensive methods and personal gain. Any one who takes even the most superficial view of the Chinese immigration question, in its latest aspect knows that a large number of coolies are managing in some illegal way to elude the provisions of the law and take up their residence in California. It is alleged that not only is it possible for Chinese coolies and women to slip past the cordon of custom house officers on the steamer but that so frequently has the feat been accomplished that the restriction act has come to be regarded in the character of a nullity. Almost every day Chinamen desirous of getting some of their relatives off the steamer where they are detained apply to lawyers in this city to negotiate with the authorities and for a money consideration secure the release of the immigrants. Of course, some lawyers promptly reject such proposals but it is said that all advocates are not so conscientious and that by their superior ingenuity or some occult influence they manage to obtain the release of the prisoners.

A THRIVING BUSINESS.

The demand for witnesses to prove that the appealing coolies formerly lived in California has been great during the past year and as Chinese women are valuable chattels some Chinese adventurers interested in the trade in human flesh have made fortunes. One well known Chinaman on Washington street, near Kearney is said to have cleared $40,000 within the past eight months. Other astute Mongolians have made nearly as much and there is no doubt that a great many Chinese women have been imported in one way and another during the past year. A host of male coolies have also managed to obtain a permanent footing on American soil and democratic accusers allege that each one of these represents the sum of $80 to be divided between a syndicate operating at Hong Kong and San Francisco.

The illegal reward for smuggling in Chinese women through the custom house is said to be $400. It is also charged that in some way certificates that were never issued to Chinese leaving San Francisco have found their way to Hong Kong and can be there purchased by Chinese coolies desirous of coming to the United States.

It was stated yesterday that one of the most prominent democrats in the city had received a telegram from Secretary Manning informing him that at a near date these important charges would receive the fullest attention from the treasury department.

HENDRICKS' FAILURE.

It has been stated that the reason Mr Hendricks of Oroville California, nephew of the vice president did not receive the appointment of superintendent of the mint was that he declined to ask a favor of his relative. It is stated now by those well informed that the vice president himself presented his nephew's strong application and yet notwithstanding many reasons why it would it seems that it proved useless. The impression here among prominent democrats is that the recommendation of the vice president is a passport to failure, and that Cleveland is determined to make [illegible] for his associate by assigning his friends to influential places.

These are three in number namely: The Appalachian district extending from Maryland to Georgia and Alabama, portions of Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas and a portion of Texas. Geographical surveys will also be continued in Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, Montana and Idaho and in the Yellowstone park. Several astronomical parties will also be sent out to establish starting points for new surveys to be [illegible] next year.

BURCHARD'S LETTER TO MANNING.

He Gives Reasons for Declining to Resign his Office.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Following is the text of the letter of Mr Burchard declining to resign when requested to do so by Secretary Manning:

Sir: Respectfully acknowledging your request for my resignation communicated to me on the 11th inst. I have the honor to state that after careful consideration I am not satisfied that duty or propriety require me at this time to resign my office. Were any malfeasance or misconduct alleged or believed to exist, I am sure you would have done me the justice to have had an impartial examination and given full opportunity of defense before demanding my resignation. Nor do I understand from you that the request is made for such reason, but it is because you deem the relations of my office to be so intimately connected with your administration of the treasury department that you should have the privilege of selecting an officer to be in charge of this bureau. Were this the case and the intention of the law, it might be proper and becoming for me to place the tenure of my service at your command, or perhaps to have done so when you became head of the department but permit me to say that such has not been my understanding of the purpose of the act in providing that the director of the mint shall hold his office for a term of five years unless sooner removed by the president, upon reasons to be communicated by him to the senate. The length of the term, five years, the conditions upon which removal is authorized and discussions and explanations preceding the passage of the act, indicate that it was the intent that the office of director of the mint should not be changed on account of a change in the administration or in the head of the department, or for personal or political reasons. My predecessor, appointed by President Grant although of opposite politics continued in office under five successive secretaries of the treasury until his death. As to myself having served with acceptance for a full term and upon reappointment and confirmation a part of another I am conscious of no reason why an exception should now be made or why I ought not to continue in the performance of my official duty until the expiration of my commission. Very respectfully,

HORATIO C. BURCHARD.

Hon. Daniel Manning, Secretary of State.

POLITICAL OBSERVATIONS.

Senator Sherman, who recently passed through Oregon talked at St Paul a little about political matters. He said:

I think the administration is going along, doing as little harm as possible but at the same time restoring the rebels to power whenever there is a chance. It is hard for us to see them trying to restore these men to power again after we have fought them down.

On this subject the St. Paul Pioneer Press justly says:

It is natural and right that those who were loyal to the Union should personally feel the distinction between their loyalty and the treason of others. While there remain among the living any of those who passed through the terrible strife the distinction between the two will be as broad as that between honor and dishonor. Nor is it possible to wholly obliterate this distinction as a political one. It is true that the "war is over"; true that there are no rebels in arms though there are many who still refuse to accept the great settlement of the war. It is true that the broad mantle of American citizenship covers the people of the north and south, and that sectionalism in politics is one of the things we would willingly let die. Those who fought on the confederate side are citizens entitled to equal political rights with those who fought for the Union. The rebel and the loyalist stand on the same level of constitutional equality. The south is an integral part of the Union, but for all that, Senator Sherman voices the sentiment of all loyal people of these United States when he protests against the surrender of this government to the control of those who only twenty-one years ago were in arms for its destruction. This distinction between rebel and patriot is a real one and a living one, and will not and ought not to be effaced from the political sentiment of the loyal masses so long as they hold in abhorrent remembrance the prodigious crime against the Union. The rebel has been conceded all his political rights by the republican party. Even the right to hold office was not denied him. But to give them a reasonable share of the offices is one thing, to turn the government over to their control is another. The united democratic south is the ruling power of the democratic party. But no one knows better than the wiser and more sagacious of the southern democrats that the democratic party can never retain possession of this government except upon the condition that the late confederates are remanded to a back seat in the administration of this government. They know full well that the loyal north will not tolerate the political domination of men identified with the late rebellion, or the rule of southern ideas and policies. That the solid south, with its immense preponderance of political strength in the democratic party, and its inordinate ambition for active and effective rule, will long be content with the back seats which it has been obliged to take for these reasons of political prudence is hardly probable. As Senator Sherman says, it is gradually groping—feeling its way back to an active and open assertion of its power in the administration of the government. That is precisely what the northern people will not submit to and what makes it pretty certain that not even Cleveland's cautious policy can avert the popular revulsion which will follow the brief restoration of the bourbons.

POLITICAL EXPRESSION.

The Globe Democrat declares that Missouri is a tariff state every time a vote is fairly polled.

The Boston Globe predicts that in November Massachusetts will go democratic. Republican papers claim a majority of at least 50,000.

There is but one candidate for United States senator in Ohio on the republican side says the Cincinnati Gazette and his name is John Sherman.

The latest "Ohio idea," according to the Chicago News, is to elect Judge Foraker governor, Charles Foster United States senator and John Sherman president.

Indianapolis Times: The difference between President Cleveland and Vice President Hendricks regarding civil service reform seems to be this: The latter is not a hypocrite.

Says the Charleston News and Courier: "The democratic party must look higher and rise higher year by year if it expects to retain public confidence. It is on trial to-day before the people."

Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette: Practically Cleveland's administration is being run on the spoils system and differs from preceding democratic administrations only in the sluggishness of its movements.

Detroit Post: The president has made some notoriously unfit appointments after he knew they were unfit to be made. In these cases he cannot escape responsibility by the claim that he was deceived by democratic politicians.

Cleveland Leader: It is secrecy which helps the boss system and while matters are kept under cover neither the president nor his executive aids can be called to account at the bar of public opinion for an improper use of public patronage. What is needed is plenty of light on the civil service.

St Louis Post Dispatch: The process of converting the national democratic party into a nice little family tea party is going on not only in Missouri but also in West Virginia, where Congressman Gibson has recently done the brother act with much eclat, his brother J Catlett Gibson having been made district attorney for the district.

New York Herald: No loss would come to the country if the president never again saw or gave hearing to a man, a senator, a representative or an individual office-beggar who aims to waste his time on that business. On the contrary great gain would come to the public if the president and his subordinates could thus secure time to attend to their necessary public duties.

A Cherished Tradition Exploded.

Philadelphia Press.

The latest of our cherished political traditions to go to everlasting smash is that concerning Thomas Jefferson's celebrated ride to his inauguration. Instead of riding alone and unattended to the capitol, it is asserted by McMaster, the historian, that he went surrounded by a crowd of citizens and a troop of militia with banners flying and music swelling the air, and that he mounted the steps of the capitol amid the roar of cannon and the shouts of the multitude. And so these beautiful legends of democratic simplicity vanish like shadows before the radiating light of historic truth. It needs now only the destruction of the fairy story about Andrew Jackson's smoking a corn-cob pipe to complete the general ruin.

HISTORY OF ASIATIC CHOLERA.

Cholera is indigenous to India, where it always exists as an endemic disease but it is not always the great scourge there that it usually becomes when it leaves its native seats and goes flying over the world. Within the past few days it has broken out alarmingly in Spain, where its virulence is very great, an unusual proportion of the cases terminating fatally. Its appearance and prevalence there give rise to apprehensions that it may quickly be dispersed over Europe, and perhaps may reach America as has so frequently happened heretofore. Experience has shown that it does not wait always to be communicated by travel or commerce, but that under favorable conditions of the atmosphere, or other circumstances not yet well understood, it may suddenly appear in places hundreds and even thousands of miles distant from localities where it was known to exist. Cholera has appeared suddenly in America without having been brought from beyond the Atlantic, and may again. Originating in Asia, it appears in other countries according to the sequence of given circumstances. Bartlett, in his work on the history, cause and prevention of cholera, says that in the year 1817 the disease first passed the confines of India, overspread all southern Asia, passed on to China and Tartary, and closed its five years campaign at the Russian city of Astrachan. Five years later it was again on its march, knocking at the doors of the town of Ohrenburg in Russia, and two years later it entered the city of Moscow, where its appearance produced greater consternation than the terrors of the great conflagration associated with the invasion of the first Napoleon. Hastening onward it successively attacked St. Petersburg, Warsaw, Dantzic, Berlin and Hamburg, and crossed to England in 1831. The same year it not only appeared in London and Paris, but overleaped the barrier presented by 3000 miles of water and made its first assault on the new continent—appearing in Quebec and Montreal. It was on the 24th of June, 1832, that the scourge made its appearance in New York, where it found the city as though it had come "like a thief in the night," totally unprepared for its approach. The same summer it visited Baltimore, Philadelphia and St. Louis. For two years after that there were cases here and there in the United States, and then it entirely disappeared. In 1847, for the third time the cholera, after a season of rest and recuperation, left its home in the delta of the Ganges, and, pursuing the same route it had on previous occasions, continued its march of conquest until winter overtook it at Moscow. With the advent of the next spring it raged in St Petersburg, Berlin, Hamburg, Edinburgh, London, and during the month of August crossed the Atlantic a second time and scourged New Orleans, and was only checked at New York by quarantine. The next year, 1849, it broke out in New York, Philadelphia and other places on the Atlantic seaboard. Starting afresh in New Orleans, it overspread the Mississippi valley and, following the emigrant trains on their westward course, it finally reached the shores of the Pacific and rested at Sacramento, where for six years milder exhibitions of the epidemic were frequently appearing. In 1865 for the fourth time its poisonous breath swept over the continent of Asia, creating its greatest havoc at Mecca among the thousands and tens of thousands of loyal Mohammedans who had congregated there to worship at their shrine. In 1866 and 1867 it reappeared in New York, but was quickly stamped out. Last year it appeared in Egypt, whence it passed over to Italy and its recent appearance in Spain creates a fear that it may sweep over Europe and America again. The fact that there can be no certainty in fixing the locality of its next outbreak makes the uneasiness universal, for no city or town on the face of the globe can feel that it is absolutely sure of being exempt from its ravages. The only security that exists is in thorough sanitation.

GOLD AND SILVER PRODUCT.

The United States Geological Survey has sent out advance sheets of its report on mining statistics. The information the report contains is of interest and value. It will be understood of course, that the information presented in reports of this kind can, at best, only approximate to correctness. But these statistics have been gathered with great care, and have been compared with and corrected by returns obtained through other sources.

The gold product of 1882, 1883 and 1884 shows no great variation. That of 1883 was less than that of 1882 by nearly 121,000 ounces, or by $2,500,000 in value. The product of 1884, however, was in excess of that of 1883 by 39,000 ounces, or $800,000 in value. The following are the exact figures of gold production for the years named:

	Ounces Troy	Value
1882	[illegible]	[illegible]
1883	[illegible]	[illegible]000,000
1884	[illegible]	[illegible]800,000

The greatest product of gold in any one year in the United States was in 1853, when it reached the enormous sum of $65,000,000. From this maximum amount it receded gradually but irregularly from year to year to $33,100,000 in 1875. It then advanced to $39,000,000 in 1876, $46,000,000 in 1877 and $51,000,000 in 1878. From this point the reduction has been rapid till 1883, when a lower figure was reached, as above stated, than in any year since gold was discovered in California. The amount of gold coined by the United States in 1883 was $[illegible],000,000, and in 1884, $28,000,000. In 1880 the gold coined reached $[illegible],000,000, and it was nearly as large for two or three years previous, owing to the enormous recoinage of foreign gold that was imported in those years.

The silver product of the United States for the past three years is as follows:

	Ounces Troy	Value
1882	[illegible]	[illegible]800,000
1883	[illegible]	[illegible]
1884	[illegible]	48,800,000

The silver product has never, previous to 1882, reached these figures, the largest previous year being 1880, when $46,000,000 was produced. The product previous to that time was under $40,000,000, tapering down through the past to $10,000,000 in 1866, and from that to nothing annually before 1858, when the first silver mines in the United States were discovered. The silver coinage since the standard silver dollar act was passed, in 1878, has been [illegible] annually.

Nevada, formerly the great storehouse of silver, now yields little in comparison with the magnitude of its former product. Colorado, Montana, Utah and New Mexico are now the principal sources of supply. The amount of gold coin in circulation in the country or stored in the banks or in the national treasury is estimated at $[illegible]. The amount of silver coin in the country is $[illegible]. From the disproportion of these figures it is urged that there can yet be no possible disturbance of values through the coinage of silver, and that before such disturbance can occur there will have to be either a great deal more silver or a great deal less of gold available for commercial uses.

The political demagogue is not peculiar to the United States. He is ubiquitous. In England he is about as common as in America. Among those who had much to do with defeating Gladstone on his proposed tax on beer and spirits was Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. He taunted the liberals with their refusal to tax real estate, and resorted to the demagogical trick of condemning the taxing of the poor man's beer while sparing the rich man's champagne, although he knew that the former commodity could and the latter commodity could not produce the required revenue. He also advocated transferring the burden to tea, although it is universally admitted that an increased tax on tea would still be more unpopular than the increase on beer and spirits. He is now one of the high members of the Salisbury government, and it becomes an interesting question whether he will take the medicine which he had himself prescribed. Most assuredly he will not. What he said before the defeat of Gladstone was a good enough Morgan for him then, but not now. Sir Michael is a type of a big class in this and in all countries under popular government. Anything to win. The democratic party of the United States last year discussed the tariff question in precisely the same spirit shown by this English politician in his attack on the Gladstone government.

PRETENDING ONE THING, DOING ANOTHER.

Out of eighty collectors of internal revenue in the United States sixty three new ones have been appointed up to date. Within two months more every collector of internal revenue in the country will be a democrat. This is what was to have been expected. There is no reason to complain of the fact. But it is altogether proper to point out the hypocrisy of the professions of the administration in the matter. It has declared and still declares that efficient men shall not be removed from office merely on account of their politics; that political or party service ought not to govern appointments, and that divorce of the public service from partisanship, which the principles of reform require, is to be secured through the selection of officials without other regard to their party affiliations than it will be necessary to consider in order that the offices may be shared by representatives of both parties as equally as possible. Yet though the administration makes these professions, its course shows that it is as spoils an administration as any of its predecessors, and it is apparent that just as soon as it can be brought about every office in the country will be filled by a democrat. Let us say again, and plainly, that we are not complaining about this. On the contrary, we should be glad to see every remaining republican removed at once. But it is altogether proper to expose the false pretences under which the old spoils system is being carried out.

In two or three instances, indeed, the president has appointed persons not actually identified with his own party but in these instances the purpose of paying political and personal debts by official appointments—the very thing most opposite to civil service reform—has been more prominent than in any of the partisan appointments he has made. Thus, Pearson was reappointed postmaster of New York in order to pay the mugwumps for their support last fall and Beecher's son was appointed collector at Puget Sound as a return for the efficient service rendered Mr. Cleveland by the old man. It is not at all surprising that these things have been done, and if they had been done without false pretenses there would have been little occasion for comment. It is the hypocrisy attending them that causes remark. That way certainly does not lie civil service reform.

Judge Joseph F. Kuhn of Port Townsend, chairman of the territorial democratic committee, was in the city yesterday on his way home from a visit to Washington. He was an applicant for the Puget sound collectorship, and his candidacy was endorsed almost unanimously by the democrats of the territory, but it seems that President Cleveland considered his obligation to Beecher higher than his duty to the "faithful workers" of his party. It is true, Judge Kuhn says, that Beecher did not apply for the place for his son, but Mrs. Beecher did, and Beecher's agent, Pond, visited Washington in the young man's interest and staid there till the appointment was made. Judge Kuhn is not bitter over his disappointment, but he feels, and he has the right to feel, that he has been treated shabbily, and that the democracy of the territory as a body has been snubbed.

THE OREGONIAN is not concerned about democratic squabbles over the spoils. It cares nothing about the offices further than as the disposition of them illustrates matters of higher importance. The personal phase of the Puget sound case is to us and to the general public its least interesting feature. The real importance of the appointment of young Beecher is the fact that it is a violation of pledges made by President Cleveland to the country a violation all the more discreditable because the attempt is made to lie out of it. If the president in appointing the young man had said: "He is, so far as I can learn, fully qualified for the duties of the office. He is intelligent, industrious and honest. He will make a good collector, and in appointing him I am securing every benefit to the public service which could be gained by the appointment of Judge Kuhn or any other man. His father aided me at a time when I needed aid, and through me helped the democratic party into power. But besides this party obligations I owe Mr Beecher and his wife a debt of deep personal gratitude. When my character was assailed, they came forward with apologies and support which did much to relieve me from unjust blame. Mrs Beecher has asked me to appoint her son to this position and I have sufficient assurance that Mr. Beecher would join with her if he could do it with propriety. I have an opportunity to pay without cost to the public service, their favors to my party and to myself personally. I should be something less than a man if I did not do it. And I do it without apology, for I believe I am doing right."

If Mr. Cleveland had said something like this he would have had so large a share of public approval that criticism would have been difficult or, at least, pointless. Almost every man in the country would have said, or have thought, that under similar circumstances he would have done the same thing.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer exclaims with some bitterness against the "density of the ignorance which gives Oregon credit for the productions of Washington territory." It says: "What is most astonishing is the fact that this lamentable ignorance is displayed by such papers as the New York Herald, Tribune and Times, the Philadelphia Press, the Chicago Tribune, the Brooklyn Eagle, and many others which might be supposed to possess more enlightened knowledge. The Kansas City Times even goes so far as to locate the headquarters for our customs district at Portland. At the present rate Puget sound will soon be spoken of as an Oregon pond and Mount Rainier as an Oregon hillock." Don't worry, neighbor: time will fix things. For forty years Oregon has been in the popular eastern mind a back county of California, and we are only just now beginning to be known as an individuality. Things move a little faster now, so probably Washington territory won't have to wait so long till her independence is recognized. [illegible]

The desperate condition of the Scotch land market is shown by the surprising number of Scotch estates now offered for sale. Some of the oldest and reputed richest families are really "land poor" on account of the concessions they have had to make to tenants, the troubles with the crofters and other complications, which have decreased their incomes while increasing their expenses. One auctioneer alone recently advertised for sale in one day Scotch estates valued at $[illegible]. Mr. James Schoolbred, the London dry goods dealer, has bought the famous Ben Wyvis deer forest for $[illegible] at which price it is considered a bargain. Many Americans are in the market looking at Scotch properties.

A democratic newspaper of Washington says: "There can be seen at the capital of any other country on the planet a spectacle so indecorous, so unseemly, shall scandalous, as that which has been witnessed in the capital of this republic almost continuously during three months." All the roads leading to the capital have exhibited a continuous procession of office-beggars. It would appear from this democratic testimony that the democratic party does not believe that the democratic platform in favor of civil service reform amounts to anything.

"Tinged with Puritanism" is an expression something different from "tinged with Protestantism." But the manipulators of the types couldn't see the difference, and consequently in an editorial published yesterday on "Observance of Sunday," they put the latter expression for the former.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

OREGON.

Nearly 30,000 head of cattle were recently collected in the general rodeo in Goose Lake valley, near Lakeview.

Campbell Chrisman, pioneer and well known citizen, died at his home in Lane county a few days ago, aged 71.

The Iron Horse base ball nine challenge any nine in the county to play nine innings at Roseburg on the 4th of July for any sum from $1 to $1000.

An army of crickets has been marching across Sprague river valley, clearing out everything in the shape of tender vegetation on the line of march.

Green Bros. of Coyote creek resumed work recently on their quartz ledge and have several men at work. They have one of the best ledges in the state.

Crops will be fair generally, and in many instances very good, in Jackson county. The late rains have put a new face on everything. Corn looks quite well.

Excellent placer diggings on Cottonwood creek above Shaddock's place, just south of the Siskiyous, are reported, and quite a number of men are at work there.

Charles W. Smith informs us that considerable placer mining is going on in the Hungry creek district, just across the Siskiyou mountains, and that some of the mines are paying well.

A great deal of prospecting is being done in Jackson and Josephine counties, and we may expect a great mining boom as soon as capital is introduced to develop their resources.

Mr. Cabler of Wagner creek accidentally shot a prospector a short time ago, mistaking him for a bear. The bullet went through the arm, fortunately not inflicting a severe wound.

A number of deer-skinners from California are slaughtering the deer in the Siskiyou mountains in the vicinity of Cinnabar, in large numbers, for their hides. This should be stopped.

Stewart Larson, a farm hand living near Eugene City, attempted suicide last week by taking laudanum, and then cutting his throat. He recovered, and was taken to the asylum.

The military telegraph line between Linkville and Fort Klamath is in poor repair, the wire almost touching the ground in places. A force of repairers will soon commence operations, putting in new poles where it is necessary.

A gentleman in Philadelphia has subscribed a liberal sum of money toward a Presbyterian church at Linkville, and as Rev. Robert McLean has succeeded in raising a like sum among the public spirited citizens of Klamath county, the building of the edifice is a fixed fact.

A representative of a San Francisco company has lately bonded a placer mine on Wolf creek, Josephine county, and is now testing the same. He also intends to erect a quartz mill near that place, for the purpose of working some of the numerous quartz ledges in that vicinity.

The Bandon City Fishery Company expect to be in full blast by the 1st of July. Their new fishing boat will be ready for sea by that time. "Maggie" is twenty seven feet long, six feet beam, and is half decked. She is a pretty little craft, and will undoubtedly make a good sailer.

Canyon City News: There is a disease raging among horses in this part of the county, and there are but few horsemen who have not suffered a loss of colts. The disease is something similar to blackleg and the animals generally die in a few hours after they manifest symptoms of the disease.

Captain Haskell, who is said to represent Portland capital, has bonded the Roten ledge in Willow Springs precinct, and we learn will also bond the Swinden ledge near the same vicinity. Both of these mines have been worked before with fair results, and are likely to prove valuable property with the improved methods of crushing refractory ore.

Grant's Pass Courier: The men working one of the tunnels at the Yank, have struck into a cave of considerable dimensions. If the ledge is really rich there will probably be found a large amount of fine gold and perhaps some good nuggets, on the floor of this cavern. It is rumored that they have refused an offer of $1000 for a thirty day lease of this prospect.

A little daughter of R. B. Jefferson, on South Coquille, was burned to death several days ago. The child—about 7 or 8 years old—was playing with other children in an old house, which had just been given up for a new and more commodious dwelling, and, getting too near the fire, which was still burning, her clothes were soon in a blaze, and before her clothes could be removed she was so badly burned that she died in about twenty-four hours. The father, in his efforts to tear the clothing from the child's body, burned his hands in a frightful manner.

WASHINGTON.

The various logging camps on Chehalis river and Gray's harbor are putting a large number of logs into the water.

Several horses from Portland, Victoria and Seattle, have been entered for the races at Tacoma on July 3 and 4.

Building material has been taken to Neah Bay for a residence for government employes on the reservation, to be erected immediately.

The Nugget says: Winlock has the best school house in Lewis county and no church, and Chehalis has the poorest school house and three churches.

A large grey eagle of the albino order was shot on Whidby island Wednesday evening last by Mr. Austral Race. It measures 7 feet and 2 inches across its wings when extended. The bird appeared quite white when in the trees.

Agent Buckley was at La Conner last week distributing patents to the Swinomish reservation Indians, forty-nine in number. He has seventy-nine, also, for the Lummi reservation, on the Nooksack.

Thomas Gibbons, a brakeman on the Colfax branch road, fell from the top of a freight car the last six cars passing over his body, killing him instantly. The deceased was a young man 22 years of age, bore an excellent character, and was a member of the Brakemen's Brotherhood and Knights of Pythias. He was a native of La Salle, Ill.

It is reported that coal oil has been discovered at Elhi, in Pierce county. The character of the same is said to be first class. W. H. Kneeland, of Pennsylvania, well posted in oil matters, having operated largely in the oil regions in that state, was called upon and pronounced the oil good. A portion was tested and gave good satisfaction.

Montesano Vidette: Charles [illegible], son of Michael Koontz, was drowned in the Chehalis river, just below the Satsop, on Sunday last. Charley, as he was familiarly called, went in with a companion to swim and was seized with cramps while in the water. Finding himself unable to swim, he called for his companion to bring the boat which was close at hand, but before assistance could be rendered he had sunk to rise no more.

"Good deeds," once said the old Irish hero, "ring clear through Heaven like a bell." One of the best deeds is to alleviate human suffering. Last fall my daughter was in feeble health, says Mrs. Mary Hinson, of Montrose, Kansas. And everybody thought she was going into consumption. I got her a bottle of Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured her. Such facts as this above need no comment.

Dr. Henley's Celery. Beef and Iron will restore the vitality.

The extensive and tastefully arranged advertisement of [illegible] Prager Bros., which appeared in yesterday's OREGONIAN, attracted universal attention. These gentlemen entertain the correct idea of the relations which should be made to exist between the merchant and the public, and the crowds of buyers to be seen every day in their store is evidence of the wisdom of their policy. The business man who has something to sell is desirous that the public should know what it is and where it is to be found, and there is no way to accomplish this end so readily and thoroughly as through the columns of a well circulated newspaper.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

RABBITS IN EASTERN OREGON.—Some weeks since a communication was received by THE OREGONIAN inquiring as to whether there was any kind of tree which the rabbits of eastern Oregon would not eat. The question was thought to be a silly one at the time, but subsequent investigation shows that it is one of considerable importance. During a flying trip to eastern Oregon a few days since an OREGONIAN reporter learned that the young trees set out on timber culture claims had been greatly injured last winter by rabbits, which, when the ground is covered with snow, girdle everything in the shape of vegetation which rises above it. He also learned that no known species of tree is safe from their attacks. Perhaps the devil['s] [illegible] tree might knock them silly [illegible] that tree is the only recourse? It will not make firewood when grown, but will make excellent fence posts. The rabbits have increased in numbers of late years owing to the destruction of the coyotes, which have been poisoned off by sheep men, and they are becoming a nuisance. As the country becomes settled they will gradually disappear, for although no dog can catch a full whiskered fan tailed jack rabbit, young dogs soon learn the coyote's trick, and one will chase after the rabbit while another, who has found out that the long-eared animal always comes back to the place from which he started, lies in wait, and as the panting and tired rabbit nears the home base he pounces out upon him and gathers him in. One rancher has a shrewd old shepherd dog which manages to capture rabbits without assistance. When he first starts the rabbit he rushes furiously after it for a short distance. The rabbit lights out for a ten mile run, and finally finds his way home rather tired. Next day the dog starts the rabbit again and races him far enough to warm him up, and he does his regular round again, and comes home completely bunged up. The next day the dog goes out, and when the rabbit hobbles off he puts in his best licks and soon captures his prey.

SHELL FEASTING ON CLAMS.—A curious paddle shaped instrument, made of bone, probably from a whale, was found a few days since in one of the immense shell mounds, near the Seaside house, by some workmen, who were hauling shells to make a road. Charley Ohle has preserved it, but is unable to decide whether it was made for stirring mush or whether it was used in the place of the more modern slipper to paddle the young savages of primeval days. Many other curious relics have been found in these shell mounds, but nothing is known as to who made them. Clatsop beach, it would seem, has been a favorite summer resort for ages. Irving, in his "Astoria," says tribes of Indians from the Willamette visited the beach every summer for clams. He alludes to seventy-five years ago. But these immense shell mounds are covered with soil, and huge trees have grown over them and fallen and decayed on them, showing that hundreds of years ago some people visited the place to feast on clams. And now that these prehistoric races, both of men and clams, have passed away, other races of people still visit the place to feast on another race of clams. True history repeats itself and will keep on repeating itself as long as people and clams shall endure.

DEAD BODY IDENTIFIED.—Coroner Cooke sent for yesterday and had brought to the morgue the dead body which had been found floating in the river just below City View park. It was first discovered by Captain Pope, of the steamer Multnomah, on the trip up to Oregon City and he notified the coroner by telephone. There was no trouble in identifying the remains as soon as the clothes could be examined. In the pockets were a watch and chain, a diamond ring, several small articles of minor value, and letters and papers which fully identified the body as that of Abe Wachenheimer of Albany, Linn county. Mr. Wachenheimer was last seen alive on Monday the 22d inst., when he started out for a pull up the river. The boat was discovered bottom side up the next day, and it is supposed he met with some accident by which he was thrown into the water. There were no marks of violence on the body and are no suspicions of foul play. A coroner's inquest was held which resulted in a verdict of accidental drowning. The remains were packed in ice and will be shipped to Albany for burial.

THREE SISTER SHIPS ALL ARRIVED SAFE.—The barkentine William H. Besse, Captain Gibbs, now at Victoria, has been chartered by Andrew Berry of Astoria, to load salmon for New York. She will leave Victoria for this port to-morrow. She will take on part of her cargo here, part along the river, and will fill up at Astoria. She made the trip from Hong Kong to Victoria in [illegible] days. On the trip she lost her fore top gallant mast and jibboom in a squall. The Alden Besse, Captain O'Brien, which sailed about the same time, met no rough weather, but carried her light sails throughout the trip. The Colona, which sailed for this port before either of her sisters, was longest on the passage. Captain Noyes says, just because he was in a hurry. He started with the intention of cracking right along, as all he had in the world, his wife and daughter, were waiting him here, but at the end of fourteen days he found himself only 400 miles from Hong Kong, and had easterly winds the whole way, so that the trip was a succession of long tacks, and every mile [illegible] had to be worked for.

ASTORIA LAND GRANT FORFEITURE.—In answer to a question regarding the tardiness of declaration of the forfeiture of the Astoria land grant, Senator Dolph on Friday told a writer for the Astorian that he had repeatedly visited the general land office in Washington and had directed the attention of the officials in charge to the fact that though the act of forfeiture had passed congress [illegible] no official notification of the forfeiture had yet been received by Register Bain at Oregon City. The commissioner [illegible] was that he had an immense amount of business before him and had not got to that yet; that he was desirous of giving everything in his department his personal attention, and that there were a great many things that he did not care to trust to subordinates. Senator Dolph received the impression that the commissioner is a well meaning and competent official, but that he is desirous of going slow and making no mistakes. In this particular instance, says the [illegible] at [illegible] to this business.

[illegible] WELL DESERTED.—[illegible] general complaint [illegible] visitors to the City park [illegible] of water [illegible] to drink in that place. The little spring in the gulch near the center of the park which was dug out and walled up, seems to have been fixed so much that it has made the water unfit for drinking. Some say the wall was sunk in a layer of [illegible] mud, while [illegible] of the spring [illegible] think that the cement used has given the water a bad taste. There was but little water in the first place, and that little, it seems, had been considerably [illegible] There [illegible] some [illegible] made [illegible] water into the park from one of the springs up the hills above as good drinking water is an absolute necessity there during the hot weather. [illegible] arrangements [illegible] park with water [illegible] good time to take the steps toward securing a supply.

APPROACHING THE END.—There seems to be a wrong impression in the minds of many of our citizens in regard to the seventh Day Adventists who are holding a camp meeting on the outskirts of town. They are not the same as the Second Day Adventists, or Millerites, who had a date fixed for the end of the world and their ascension to glory. These people believe that the end of the world is approaching and will probably arrive during the present generation. The work of judgment is going on now, having started in 1844 with Abel, and has now reached down to the martyrs. When the end of the long list shall be reached then Christ will come again, bringing the rewards for the just, while the others will be driven away or annihilated. And then our loathsome [illegible] will be swept off into outer darkness, while THE OREGONIAN and all its attaches shall continue to flourish and enjoy the earth, and to instruct and edify the saints.

STEAMER TELEPHONE WHISTLES.—Hereafter the steamer Telephone will blow one whistle five minutes before leaving her dock, and a short whistle to cast off, which will be appreciated by the public. The management deserve great credit for discontinuing the [illegible] whistle [illegible] down heretofore.

MISS EDGAR'S BENEFIT.—The box sheet for Miss Louise Edgar's benefit will open at 8 [illegible] this morning at Jones Bros. [illegible] street [illegible] reserved seats instead of [illegible] as heretofore announced. The summer [illegible] [illegible] night.

DECISIONS TO-DAY.—Judge Stearns, in [illegible] of the state circuit court, will announce decisions this morning in the following cases: City of Portland vs. [illegible]; Joseph M. Bloomfield vs. Buchanan & Pearson.

DELAYED TRAINS.—The mails due here by the Short line at noon yesterday arrived at [illegible] P. M. The mail via the Northern had not arrived at 1 o'clock this morning. The cause of the delay could not be learned last evening.

He entered into a partnership with [illegible] to build a hotel; contracts were entered into and soon a [illegible] $6000 hotel was being built. Hibbs was going to Victoria, intending to purchase furniture for the new building, when the minions of the law overtook him and checked his further [illegible] [illegible] Almost [illegible] upon his arrival at Farwell Hibbs was recognized by an old [illegible] and [illegible] finding it was impossible to hide his identity, he admitted that he was traveling under the alias of Wilson, and begged Allen not to give him away.

THE PORTLANDS WIN

The Decisive Game with the Vancouvers 20 to 6

A large crowd was at City View park yesterday to witness the third game of the series between the American Stars of Vancouver and the Portland baseball club. Each nine had won a game and a third contest was expected. But the game was easily won by the Portlands. Wilson, the soldiers' catcher, had a sore hand and was unable to hold Forney's delivery, which helped the Portlands to pile up the runs, though the latter also batted well and ran the bases in good style. The soldiers fielded poorly with two or three exceptions, while the Portlands did careful work in all but one inning. Chadderding pitched effectively, Jennings caught fairly and Edwards and Buchtel did fine work at third base and short field, but none of the other Portlanders had much opportunity to distinguish themselves. The game was fairly umpired by Young of the Stars. The [illegible] is not kept [illegible] but the summary [illegible] follows:

Portlands	2	0	2	3	[illegible]	4	[illegible]			[illegible]
American Stars	0	0	0	0	[illegible]	4	0	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Base hits—Portlands 11, soldiers [illegible]
Errors—Portlands [illegible], soldiers to [illegible]
Earned runs—Portlands 4, soldiers 1.
Umpire—Young.

SOME SCHOOL TALK

SPOKANE FALLS, [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In reading the fifth biennial report of the superintendent of public instruction of this territory [illegible] these remarks. The superintendent [illegible] the [illegible] "old fogies" [illegible] [illegible] his weighty ideas about [illegible] For his remarks we must infer that [illegible] [illegible] We must [illegible] that there is some new and secret method of [illegible] putting instruction, some esoteric [illegible] [illegible] normal schools, and likewise that anybody by passing through one becomes a [illegible] teacher [illegible] normal school [illegible] [illegible]

The majority of normal graduates do not remain in the profession of teaching but seek other employment. All these are educated at the expense of the people who do not derive even the benefit from it; and those who cannot afford to pay for their schooling, as well as lawyers, doctors and the like.

Teachers' institutes the expenses of which are borne by the public are very useful—in theory—on account however of certain traits of human nature impossible to eliminate, they are practically useless. Other competitors were William Sprague of [illegible] Ward company [illegible] a gold ball [illegible] worn by the foreman of the company. A pistol shot the signal for the start. Sprague jumped ahead, Roesing close up, and Buchtel some ten feet behind. [illegible] yards, the distance between the leaders and Buchtel increasing to about twenty feet when Buchtel brought his reserve into effective play. With a handsome spurt he passed the leaders and won in a canter by twenty feet. Roesing and Sprague tied for second place. Sprague and Roesing were first and second choice respectively in the betting, with Buchtel a bad third [illegible] signal for the start [illegible] Pioneer company who were out in good force. The time from pistol shot to finish was [illegible] seconds, but with the time lost at the start and the finish by Buchtel it is believed he can reduce the record to [illegible] seconds. The race is the more creditable to him for having run after a long siege of baseball with the Portland nine. The presentation of the badge to the foreman W. H. Bartel will occur this evening after a drill by the hose team. The excitement after the first race caused [illegible] interest to be taken in the second, same distance [illegible] prize [illegible] ball. This was won by [illegible] Third ward company without [illegible] and William Sprague being the winner.

The Third Ward Hose Company will meet at the council chamber at [illegible] o'clock this evening for the purpose of organizing.

THE ADVENTISTS CAMP

How their Sabbath and Sunday were Passed—Large Numbers of People from the City Visit their Exercises

Saturday, the day observed as "the Sabbath" by the Adventists was a prosperous day in camp. At 10 o'clock a Sabbath school of over 200 members was held. This exercise is never omitted in any of their campmeetings, so that none need fall behind their classes at home. The class contributions amounted to $18. In the afternoon after sermon by Elder Loughborough from the text "Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and will sup with him, and he with me," between seventy and eighty came forward for prayers. Following this a social meeting was held in which nearly all took part.

An interesting feature of the camp exercises is the children's meeting. A half hour each day is devoted exclusively to the children. No sermons [illegible] preached to them, but simple Bible stories are told, while the blackboard is freely used. The faces of the children and their ready responses show their interest. Many old people are attracted to this service.

Yesterday being a pleasant day many townspeople made the camp a visit. The morning discourse was a vigorous plea for the observance of the decalogue. The speaker showed the law and the gospel to be correlative, the law being primary and the gospel being secondary. The Adventists hold the orthodox view that the moral law is the basis of all law, that it is unchangeable and eternal; that the transgression of it is sin, and that the gospel saves men from the death which is the penalty for transgression. Testimonies were read from John Wesley, Bishops Hopkins, Simpson and others to the effect that Christians as well as all others are required to keep every portion of the law, both in letter and in spirit. In the afternoon Elder Loughborough preached from the text, "When the [illegible] [illegible]" [illegible] in the evening closed the Sunday [illegible] [illegible] the entire day [illegible] exercises will proceed to-day as usual.

A RECORD UNPARALLELED IN THE HISTORY OF THE LIFE INSURANCE OF THE WORLD

The Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association of New York in 1884 issued upon the lives of citizens of New York (its own state) more insurance by [illegible] than issued by five-sixths of all the old line life insurance companies of New York combined, while the expenses of management alone of these companies, although securing over one million dollars less business, were 5,607 [illegible] or eighteen times as great as the entire expense of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, and more than seven times greater than all its total expenditures, including death claims paid.

Total new business in 1884 in New York of all old line state companies ... [illegible]
Total new business in 1884 of all other state old line companies in New York ... [illegible]

Total in 1884 of all old line companies ... [illegible]
Total new business in 1884 in New York state of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association ... $11,185,000

More than [illegible] per cent. of all the new business obtained in New York by this association and its twenty-nine rivals (15 state and 14 foreign companies) was done by this association in spite of all the fair and unfair competition of those powerful competitors. The record of the two previous years was similar, while in 1885 up to date more than $20,000,000 new business has been obtained. If this association is not in every sense reliable, why is it so well patronized where it is best known?

Security given good as the best. Rates from one-fifth to two-thirds less than in cheapest old line companies.

SATURDAY, June 27.

[illegible] The [illegible] ing weather bright, [illegible] water. Trade matters very quiet [illegible] a fair business at old [illegible]. The San Francisco call board have [illegible] on the 30th inst. for one week [illegible] and the members to [illegible] vacation without loss.

In the absence of [illegible] Indian wheat [illegible] an English trade paper [illegible] that the trade [illegible] very uncertain and [illegible] depends on the [illegible] circumstances. First [illegible] crops [illegible] the United States and in [illegible] low rates of freight [illegible] low rates of exchange. When all these [illegible] together the [illegible] Indian wheat which will be put on the consuming markets will astonish—as they have astonished those who are not [illegible] with the capacity of India for the production of this grain. When one or the other of these fails the margin of profit [illegible] at the best that exporters must work on a very extensive scale to obtain appreciable returns shrinks in such a degree that the exports will be [illegible] either to fulfill engagements already entered into or as an unavoidable alternative to paying for imports in money. The second of the factors given as essential to a large export [illegible] Indian wheat having been wanting in 1884 the [illegible] has not been profitable, and has consequently [illegible] reduced. Prices in London [illegible] too low to [illegible] profit to shippers, as the depreciation in the [illegible] of wheat in India has not been proportionate to the drop in Europe. To give a profit at all on export, it is said, Indian wheat must sell in London for 39s to 40s when prices in India and freights are both low."

Overland receipts include 47 bbls [illegible] 900 cs coal oil, 5 cs chocolate, 75 bxs starch [illegible] pkgs tobacco, 7 cts hams.

Str John [illegible] North, from San Francisco, brought 94 pkgs provisions [illegible] cbs acid [illegible] the [illegible] coal oil, 14 pkgs furniture [illegible] lead, 1000 bxs 89 pigs tin [illegible] pots, [illegible] salt, 304 sks bark.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours [illegible] wheat, 419 bbls flour, [illegible] ctls oats, [illegible] ctls barley, [illegible] ctls bran, 80 sks potatoes, 15,577 lbs wool, [illegible] hides, 87 cs eggs, 40 bxs cherries, [illegible] pkgs butter. Also [illegible] ctls wheat, 2036 ctls barley, [illegible] lbs wool, 2719 lbs hides, from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The market is without life. The asking rate for iron for orders is still quoted 50s. [illegible] says a vessel is en route from Yokohama for this port with merchandise for eastern account. Our en route list shows no increase, and those who should be best posted say all vessels bound this way are listed. On the other hand there are those who believe tonnage is coming that is hidden by operators with a view to keep wheat down. The time has been when this view would meet with great favor, but the low state of British markets now has too much to do with local wheat prices to admit of any particular tonnage manipulation. Rates are almost certain to rule higher except San Francisco is kept down to a low level. Valparaiso dates of May 13 quote handy iron for nitrate at [illegible] and for wheat 35s. Tonnage in port was then by no means excessive.

WHEAT—The usual Saturday reports are received. The local market is very quiet, prices showing no change.

OATS—Market overstocked and sales are slow. Receipts continue far above local needs and a lower range is not improbable. Indeed it would seem that nothing else would move the surplus. Holders still ask 34@35c for best feed.

POTATOES—Business only of a retail character. New Oregon offering freely at about 40c and California selling at 60c.

ONIONS—Selling at 2½@3c as to quality, etc. The call is only fair.

PROVISIONS—Dealers are heavily stocked with bacon and the request has slackened. Other sorts are plentiful and weak. Values are weak as last quoted.

CHICKENS—Stocks selling up closely to-day at $3@4 for old.

EGGS—Weaker and lower. 18c being best figure obtainable.

WOOL—Receipts show some falling off but are still fair. Valley moves slowly. The market is in fair business, without value changes, but lower prices are looked for and buyers operate against this possibility as far as they can. New York dates of 20th inst report: There has been no important change to note in the general condition of the market for this staple, and the business reported shows continued conservatism on the part of consumers, who have still to a large extent limited their purchases to actual requirements. Taking the recent auction sales of woolen goods as a basis it is evident that manufacturers are not in a position to anticipate any material improvement in values for their output, and as this is the leading factor governing their operations dealers as well as growers should realize the situation and endeavor to establish some unity of action looking to the mutual benefit of all interested. New wool continues to arrive quite liberally and the quality is considered fully equal to the average of previous seasons, both in regard to staple and condition. Texas and California are at present the leading descriptions though pulled are in good supply and receive a fair amount of attention. Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan will soon be available, and in a short time values will be established by actual transactions at the eastern distributing markets. Foreign wools are dull, with prices about steady, and wants of consumers being supplied by arrivals purchased previously.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Governments dull and firm, except for 3s, which are a shade higher. Stocks have been weak to-day, Pacific Mail and Central New Jersey leading. At the same time business has been very dull, though the market exhibited a strong undertone. Notwithstanding the decline for the past two days the street is bullish on the situation. There was a little rally in the afternoon, followed by decided weakness. Between 2 and 3 o'clock the street was in possession of nothing of interest regarding the Pacific Mail Company's loss of its steamer at Yokohama, but the stock was pressed for sale at every opportunity, and it sold down to 48⅞, but in the afternoon showed more strength than the general list and closed with a loss of only ⅜ per cent. Other declines are generally for a fraction less than ½ per cent, but none of the active list shows any gain.

THE CLAMOROUS "VICTORS."

Southern Democrats Disgusted with the Tardiness of the Administration.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Democratic congressmen who have visited Washington [illegible] in quest of places for their constituents [illegible] under the impression that as the new fiscal year approaches [illegible] incumbents will [illegible] anything, but [illegible] with the situation. Nearly all of them have been disappointed, and some are inclined to express their dissatisfaction in plain terms. Representative Bennett of North Carolina, who has returned home, expresses himself [illegible] to procure changes by charging the responsibility upon the administration. [illegible] no need that next winter he will endeavor to [illegible] all the way to the appointment of democrats [illegible] his best [illegible] the civil service laws.

Several other southern congressmen have recently left Washington expressing [illegible] of patience with the administration. The [illegible] and many of the representatives of two southern states have for some time been laboring to have a southern democrat appointed to [illegible] position held by [illegible] republican. Not only did they urge the appointment of their man, who was strongly recommended, but they protested that the republican incumbent was [illegible] and that he ought to be removed summarily. After several months of waiting, the congressional backers of the candidate were a few days ago asked by the department to [illegible] the appointment [illegible] they would not oblige him by withdrawing the [illegible] of their friend and accepting a lesser clerkship for him. They refused [illegible] anything of the kind and [illegible] republicans to [illegible] they [illegible] the administration [illegible] disgusted. [illegible] that the president or any member of his cabinet [illegible] and credited that sweeping charges are [illegible] made during the last [illegible] but democrats everywhere believed that this was [illegible] the policy and they are inclined to hold the president responsible and to censure him for not adopting it. Though a good many appointments have been made during the last several weeks they represent but a small proportion of those [illegible]

Mineral Product of the United States.

Washington Dispatch.

The chief of the division of mining statistics in the geological survey has issued advance sheets of his report on the mineral statistics of the United States. The total output of coal of all kinds for 1884 [illegible] a net gain over 1883 [illegible] tons [illegible] The production of crude petroleum was 24,08[illegible] barrels of forty-two gallons each, of which the Pennsylvania and New York fields produced [illegible]. As compared with 1883 the product shows an increase of 80[illegible] 29 barrels, but as the average price fell from $1 10 to 83 cents per barrel the total value was [illegible] less. The estimated [illegible] of the natural gas used in 1884 was $1 [illegible] against $4[illegible] the year before. The total amount [illegible] tons [illegible] decrease of [illegible] tons, with a value at the [illegible] of [illegible] the previous year. The total value of all iron and steel in the first stage of manufacture, excluding duplications, was $1[illegible] 000,000, a decline of $[illegible]5,000,000 from 1883. The production of gold was $30,800,000 and of silver $48,800,000, an increase of $800,000 gold and $2,[illegible]00,000 silver over the previous year. The production of nickel was 64,[illegible] pounds, an increase of 5,7[illegible]0 pounds, but the price [illegible] cents per pound was such a fall from former prices that the total value was $4 [illegible]. The production of other metals generally show an increase in amount, but the uniform decline in price made them worth less money than the year before.

Decency in Dress.

London Times.

What is it that constitutes decency in dress. Clearly nothing but habit. The custom of the particular society or subject matter concerned, or ordinary language convention. This seems strange to some people, but it is most certainly true that there is no absolute rule as to what drapery is or is not decent. Even in the same society the conditions vary enormously. Use and custom alone determine the becoming. A Turkish lady is shocked if a strange man sees her without a yashmak and a monstrous bundle of wraps. So conventional is this covering of the face that a Mussulman peasant woman surprised in the field will often veil it with her only petticoat. Travelers tell us that a well-bred African woman blushes to be seen for the first time in clothes. The unusual use of clothing appears to her scarcely decent. Custom has it all convent on decide the matter among ourselves. A [illegible] cottage girl in Connemara who sleeps in a room with men and never owned stockings would feel uneasy in the ball dress of a princess. The princess would almost suffer death rather than share her cottage for a week. If the daughters of Leonidas went to a drawing room at Buckingham palace in their Spartan tunics they would probably cause as great a flutter as they would feel themselves. No one would expect a hospital nurse to do what hundreds of innocent girls do in a pantomime, but the danseuse, again, would hardly submit to the unsparing revelations of a surgical ward. If one [illegible] is the sole and paramount rule, but then this depends on certain conventional practices being respected.

The Logans and Washington Life.

"Carp" in the Cleveland Leader.

Mrs. Logan's house will be the center of the republican society here during the coming four years. Senator Logan holds a higher position now before the country than ever before. It is probable that he will pursue a different course in regard to his life in Washington. Prior to this he has lived in a couple of stuffy little rooms on Twelfth street, and has boarded at the common table of a second class boarding house. Under such circumstances Mrs. Logan has attained her present prominence. It is hard to say what she will be able to do with a magnificent house at her disposal. There is no better judge of human nature in the United States than Mrs. John A. Logan. She is a thorough politician and the wires which she will manipulate from her house on Iowa Circle will ramify the land and will probably reach every village within the country. Mrs. Logan is a bright woman with all her political arts, and she has a heart as big as the capitol dome. She is a good wife, a good mother and she has been the friend to scores of girls all over Washington. She is one of the few women of whom you hear nothing but praise, and John A. Logan may thank his wife for at least half of the success he has had.

The Dinners Always on Time.

New York Sun.

For awhile after I was married my dinner used to be from five to ten minutes late, said a experienced husband, but I soon remedied the matter."

"How did you accomplish it?" asked another husband, anxiously. "I'm having the same trouble."

"Easy enough. When my wife would come in and say, 'I'm sorry, dear, but dinner is a little late to-night,' I would reply, 'Good! I'll have time to step around the corner and get a drink.' Try that plan; it's a good one."

A Forced Smile.

Merchant Traveler.

"What makes you look so happy to-day?" inquired one man of another.

"Oh, I'm going to get married to-morrow," was the cheerful response.

"You've been married once, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"And you can smile now?" "Well, well, it takes a good many kinds of men to make up a world."

Upsetting a Treasury Decision.

Chicago Evening Journal.

Hon. Matthew P. Deady is judge of the United States district court of Oregon, and he appears to be a jurist of decided ability and with a mind and judgment entirely his own. He has recently decided some railroad cases, in which he applied an entirely new interpretation to several disputed questions of the laws relating to corporations. Among other late decisions given by him is a case under the customs laws, which reverses a ruling of the United States treasury department and of the department of justice, and will seriously affect the resources from customs.

For many years previous to 1883 it was the practice, in accordance with the tariff laws as they then stood, to include the cost of the covering in which any imported goods were contained in estimating the total value of the goods for the purpose of fixing the amount of ad valorem tariff dues with which they should be charged. In 1883 an act was passed by congress amending the tariff laws in this respect, and providing that "the value of the actual and necessary sacks, crates, boxes or covering of any kind shall not be estimated as part of the value of imported goods in determining the amount of duties." For some reason, the stupidity of one or more customs officials found this declaration unintelligible, and applied to the attorney general of the United States for a construction to be placed upon it. With the ingenuity sometimes characteristic of legal scientists, that officer expressed an opinion to the effect that the law meant something different from what its plain language indicates. Under his ruling the practice, for the abolition of which the law was enacted, was restored to almost its entire former extent, and, in nearly all cases, the cost of the covering in which goods are imported was added to the value of the goods in fixing the tariff dues. In the Oregon case the importer was charged by the collector of the port with tariff dues on the cost of the barrels in which the property was shipped. He appealed to the secretary of the treasury, who sustained the collector's practice. He then applied to the federal court, and Judge Deady reversed the ruling of the treasury department and the attorney general. He said:

The act of 1883 is both explicit and peremptory. It expressly prohibits the addition of the value of the covering. There is no room for construction or divergence of opinion. It is impossible to sustain the legality of this valuation or the collection of the duties thereon without absolutely ignoring the prohibitory clause in section 7 of the act of 1883, as seems to have been done in the opinion of the attorney general.

This is a very important decision, if it shall be sustained by the United States supreme court—and it will stand as the law until reversed.

A Man's Thanks.

A well known business man of Wilmington, N. C. writes to express his thanks for the benefit which his wife has derived from the use of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "It is with pleasure," he says, "that I write to express to you my gratitude for the relief and benefit your Vegetable Compound has been to my wife, who has been troubled with ulceration and falling weighing two and one half pounds, so the doctor said. She has been under the treatment of the doctor for six years. Finally he said he could do nothing more for her; that she would die in 24 hours. Then I commenced using your Compound; as soon as she commenced to take it she commenced getting better and now she can attend to her domestic affairs as well as ever she could."
